

Home of the Legh family since 1315, Adlington Hall is one of the oldest and most historic Cheshire houses. The 2,000 acre Estate contains parkland landscaped in the 18th century in the style of 'Capability Brown' complete with ha-ha. The Lime Avenue dating from 1688 is one of the oldest surviving in Britain and leads to a woodland Wilderness with winding paths, temples, bridges and follies in a rococo manner. A path through the Laburnum Arcade leads into the formal Rose Garden, then on to the Maze created in English Yew. The Father Tiber water Garden provides a peaceful haven with its ponds, fountains and water cascade and the newly created parterre provides a colourful addition to the east wing. Other features include a large herbaceous border, rockeries, specimen trees, azaleas and rhododendrons.

The plant fair will be held in front of the house again this year and will feature even more top quality nurseries specialising in a varied range of plants with something for every plant lover. Traditional teas and fresh homemade cakes will be available. There will be free guided tours of the garden by the Head Gardener, Anthony O'Grady at 11am, 12.30pm and 2pm

Admission to Garden and Fair

Special Offer for this event: £3.00 (normally £5. for the garden only) The hall will be open for guided tours at 11.30am, 12pm, 1.30pm & 2pm. There is an additional charge of £5.00 per person to enter the hall.

How to get there:

Adlington Hall is just off the A523 between Macclesfield and Stockport. At the crossroads with traffic lights by the Legh Arms public house turn into Mill Lane (opposite pub), following it for approx. 500 yards. The entrance to Adlington Hall and the Hunting Lodge is on the left.
